

Frank:

Just to let you know how much my grandson, Sean Cooke, learned in 12 short hours at Excel. He learned how to play "D" as demonstrated in the final scrimmage when he stole the ball five or six times; in that same scrimmage he followed up with a lay up each time (even though he didn't make any), which was five or six times more shots than he even took in two years of league play in a Clayton league. His ball handling improved 200% along with his court sense. The camp was a huge success for him. Thanks.

As an aside, kudos to the young lady who ran the lay up station. She didn't take any guff or fooling around from the kids, even sitting a couple down to calm them down. Such a presence!!!

Can't wait for next year. Keep me on the mailing list.

Sincerely,
John Mullane
